3. Notices.

3. If in any case the District Health Officer considers that the issue of a notice under these regulations is likely to lead to such an amount of delay as might facilitate the spread of cholera he may forthwith take such steps as he may think fit for carrying out the work, and shall thereafter, as soon as possible, issue a notice on the person concerned stating the reason why such work has been carried out.

4. If any measure which the District Health Officer has, by a notice issued under these regulations, required to be carried out, be not carried out to his satisfaction within the time stated in the notice the District Health Officer shall be entitled to carry out the measure.

(2) The Board may recover all expenses incurred by the District Health Officer in carrying out the measure under regulation 4 from the person or persons to whom the notice was originally issued.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 247A.—23rd January 1940.—Cancel existing Appendix IX of the Departmental Examination Rules, published with Appointment Department notification No. 2931A., dated the 1st May 1917, and substitute the following:—

APPENDIX IX.

Rules for training of Assistant Magistrates, Deputy Magistrates, and Sub-Deputy Magistrates.

1. These rules apply to all Assistant Magistrates, all Deputy Magistrates appointed by direct recruitment, and all Sub-Deputy Magistrates, appointed after the 1st October 1939; but the programme of departmental training of a Sub-Deputy Magistrate appointed by promotion should be modified in the light of the officer's previous experience.

2. It is the duty of District Officers to look to the practical training of the young officers placed under them, from their first entering into official life till they acquire a practical experience of their work and qualify themselves for the exercise of higher powers, by passing the prescribed examinations. District Officers are expected to take an active interest in the well-being of the young men placed under them by exercising due supervision over their studies, by testing their official knowledge, and by any other means which may seem to them to be expedient for the purpose.

3. During the first year of their training, Assistant Magistrates should devote the greater part of the period from December to March to outdoor work. The District Officer should take them with him on his tours. Of this period they should spend at least six weeks with the Subdivisional Officer of an outlying subdivision. Where this can be conveniently arranged, they should also spend some time in learning the work of a circle officer. During this circle training, they should spend about a week in camp at a selected thana studying the general working of the police-station. This touring will give them facilities for practice in the language of the province, but will not relieve them of the duty of studying for their first departmental examination.

On their return to headquarters in about the middle of March, they should attend courts, study cases, and receive the other training described in the subsequent rules. Miscellaneous outdoor enquiries may be undertaken at all times, especially during the rains.

4. As soon as any junior officer to whom these rules apply is posted to his district, the District Officer should prepare a programme showing, with reference to the work in his office, the periods which the junior officer will spend in the several departments. Each junior officer should receive a copy of the programme of his work, and the programme should be entered in a register.

The programme should be reviewed when the results of the departmental examinations are known and modifications made in it according to the officer's success or failure in different subjects.

5. Junior officers should be trained so as to get as much experience as possible in Magisterial and Revenue Courts, with a view to their acquiring a knowledge of official routine. They should also study the Codes and the Acts to enable them to go up for their departmental examinations.

6. Every junior officer should keep a diary and record briefly the work done by him day by day. The diary should be submitted to the Deputy Collector under whom they are working for the time, and should be seen by the Collector once a month.

7. Every officer to whom these rules apply is required to prepare an intelligent and precise record of six cases tried by first class Magistrates and of three defended Sessions trials.

The cases to be recorded will be selected for the purpose by the District Magistrate or by such Magistrate as may be deputed by him to select the cases: appellate cases will not be included.

The officer preparing the record must prepare it from notes taken by himself in court as the trial proceeds. He must ordinarily be present in court throughout the trial of the case which he is reporting, and he should not see the depositions recorded by the Magistrate. But if he is unavoidably absent from a small part of the hearing, the Magistrate may show him the portion of the record which he has missed.

The Magistrate will show him the judgment which he may read and from which he may take notes, but he must write in his own language a judgment fulfilling the conditions of section 367 of the Criminal Procedure Code.

It is not necessary that the notes of the statements of witnesses should contain everything which is recorded by the Magistrate, but they must contain an intelligible narrative and all important points must be brought out. When two or more witnesses repeat the same story, the examination-in-chief of all of them need not be fully noted, but the record must show the points of difference.

The Magistrate trying the case, or in Sessions cases, the Public Prosecutor, should give to the officer preparing the record a certificate of his constant attendance throughout the hearing. If he has been unavoidably absent from part of the hearing, the certificate should show for what part he was absent.

The record should consist of—

(i) a summary of the evidence, with notes on it, showing its admissibility and applicability to the offence charged;

(ii) notes on the procedure with references to the Codes, e.g., to such matters as the rules as to cross-examinations, re-examination, drawing up of charge and taking the statement of the accused;

(iii) a precis of the arguments adduced for the prosecution and the defence, and, in the case of Sessions trials, a precis of the Judge's charge to the jury.

It should be understood that value will be given to notes intelligently based on annotated editions of the Criminal Procedure Code, Penal Code, and Evidence Act.

8. The District Magistrate will forward these records to the Legal Remembrancer, who will, at any time before the date fixed for the departmental examination, send a statement of his opinion thereon to the Public Service Commission for consideration and submission to Government with the result of each half-yearly examination. The District Magistrate should keep himself informed of the progress which is made in the preparation of these records so as to ensure that they are punctually submitted, and should examine the first record of each officer to see that it has been prepared on the right lines. The records referred to in this rule must be prepared and submitted to the Legal Remembrancer within twelve months of an officer's joining his first appointment unless for any special reason Government grant an extension of this period.

If in the opinion of the Legal Remembrancer, an officer has once prepared the record satisfactorily, he will not be required to do so again, even although he may not be adjudged to have passed in Law.

9. (1) Assistant Magistrates on first joining should attend the court of a selected first class Magistrate (preferably the Sadar Subdivisional Magistrate) and should be given simple cases to try when the District Magistrate considers that they have acquired sufficient experience. They should later attend the taking of the general file in the court of the Subdivisional Magistrate.

(2) Probationary Deputy and Sub-Deputy Magistrates, during the period of their training in the Magisterial Department, should attend the court of a first class Magistrate, selected by the District Magistrate, during the trial of criminal cases.

(3) Every officer to whom these rules apply should also spend one day each in the courts of the District Judge and the District Magistrate, when these officers are engaged in hearing appeals.

10. All junior officers are required to undergo a training in treasury work, and for that purpose should be placed in charge of the district treasury, under the general supervision of the Deputy Collector ordinarily in charge, for a period of not less than six weeks continuously, and must obtain a certificate from the Collector to the effect that they have duly attended to and satisfactorily discharged the duties of Treasury Officer for the prescribed period.

11. Junior officers should not take up survey and settlement work before they are deputed to the annual training camp. The rules for the regulation of this camp are contained in the Survey and Settlement Manual.

The programme prepared under rule 4 should make provision for short periods to be spent in learning the nature of the work which is done in the several departments of the District office, and junior officers should be required to study the manuals concerned while they are engaged in those departments.

For a period not usually exceeding one month they may be placed in subordinate charge of the Chaukidari Department in order to learn the office procedure. They should also study the miscellaneous work of the Magistrate's office, and should be put in charge for a short period of the Copying Department of the Collectorate record-room.

12. Junior officers should not be required to work as clerks, or to write up registers; they should, however, prepare notes or precis of cases and draft letters. They should see all the papers which go up to the Deputy Collector, and the Deputy Collector should utilise their services in any way that he can in connection with the cases. The Deputy Collector should, at the same time, see that they make themselves acquainted with the law and rules on the subject, and should from time to time require them to prepare notes explaining the procedure or the reasons for any action taken in a particular case. In departments the work of which involves the keeping of accounts or registers, they should check and initial entries made in registers, check the accounts and examine the preparation of returns. They should make a special point of attending all inspections by the gazetted officers in charge of departments and by the Collector, and should assist during those inspections.

13. At the end of an officer's period of training in any department, the Deputy Magistrate or Deputy Collector in charge of the department should record a note in the register referred to in rule 4 stating how he has attended to his duties and a general opinion of his industry and ability. This should be shown to the District Officer who should personally interview each junior officer at least once a month and ascertain by oral examination whether he has acquired a reasonable amount of information about the working of the departments in which he has been under training. If such examination shows that any officer is insufficiently acquainted with the working of any department, he should be sent back for a further period or further periods of training in that department until his knowledge of its working is adequate, and the programme of work referred to in rule 4 should be modified accordingly. An officer in charge of a department must realise that he is held personally responsible for seeing that officers under training are given every opportunity of becoming fully acquainted with the working of the department and make full use of their opportunities.

14. Junior officers may be deputed for miscellaneous enquiries in regard to criminal cases when the inspection of a locality or other matter is important, and they may be examined in court as to their reports. They may also be deputed to conduct specific enquiries in chaukidari matters and to preside at the payment of chaukidars; before doing this they should make themselves thoroughly acquainted with the rules. Their services may also with advantage be utilised for distributing and collecting agricultural loans, for making local enquiries in probate cases, for assisting the Land Acquisition Collector in making local payments, for enquiries about agricultural calamities, and for inspecting accounts in Government estates. Such duties need not necessarily be restricted to the immediate neighbourhood of the district headquarters.

15. Members of the Bengal Junior Civil Service should be given at least six weeks' training (not necessarily in one spell) in the work of a circle officer by being deputed for training to different circles, during which period they will be instructed in the work of checking assessment lists, performing annual audits, and in the other duties of a circle officer. Members of the Bengal Civil Service should be given about three weeks' general training in the work of a circle officer.

16. All junior officers should make themselves familiar with the appearance and the names of local crops as well as of the time of sowing and harvesting. They should also, as far as possible, study the elements of agriculture in the works on agriculture, both general and Indian, which will be found in the district libraries.

17. All officers will be given training in co-operative principles and practice for about a fortnight (not necessarily in one continuous spell) under the guidance of the local Assistant Registrar or Inspector of Co-operative Societies; it will be sufficient to enable an officer to learn in a broad way what is the object of the co-operative movement, its history and progress in Bengal, how societies are supposed to work, and what are the main mistakes to be avoided. Two or three days will be devoted to theoretical instruction upon primary societies. This will be followed by visits to different types of primary societies including at least—

(a) two Credit Societies (one of a fair and one of a poor standard); and, as far as may locally be possible, one each of the following:—

(b) Village Improvement Societies;

(c) Weavers' Societies;

(d) Agricultural Produce Sale and Supply Societies;

(e) Fishery Societies (East and South Bengal);

(f) Irrigation Societies (Burdwan Division).

Further theoretical instruction will then be given upon Central and Limited Liability ("Urban") Banks followed by a visit to one of each of these two types of society.

The training should be completed in as compact a period of time as is conveniently possible, and a certificate should be obtained from the Assistant Registrar that the requisite training has been given.

18. In August or September each year, Assistant Magistrates will be deputed to Dacca for a short course of training lasting about ten days at the Dacca Agricultural Farm, to enable them to acquaint themselves with the work of the Agriculture Department.

(Note.—On an average of the five years ending 1937-38, the area under wheat in Bengal has represented some 0·4 per cent. of the total area under wheat in India. The ratio of the irrigated wheat acreage to total wheat acreage in (a) British India and (b) in the territory now reported on has, in the five years ending 1937-38, averaged (a) 42·7 and (b) 8·8 per cent., respectively.)

Explanatory.—Four forecasts of the wheat crop are published. The present forecast deals only with the estimated area sown and the general condition of the crop in the early stages.

Acreage.—According to the estimates of the District Officers, the total area sown is 175,000 acres this year as against 173,400 and 174,000 acres, respectively, in the corresponding and final forecasts of last year.

Taking 540 maunds as the normal yield of sugarcane per acre the gross outturn for the province is estimated at 5,262,000 tons this year as against 4,388,000 tons last year; and on the basis of gur cane ratio of 1·10 as the standard for the whole of the province the gross outturn of cane gur is estimated at 526,200 tons this year as against 438,800 tons last year.

Other sources of gur.—The total quantity of gur likely to be obtained from date-palm juice and other sources is estimated at 101,200 tons this year as against 113,800 tons last year.
